INTRODUCTION

"The piano is the storyteller that translates the pulse of our land. Here, academic discipline meets the freedom of popular rhythms to create a sound with a distinct identity. My purpose is to transform tradition into a vanguard that connects, moves, and endures."

BIOGRAPHY

Angélica Toro is a pianist who earned her Master's degree with honors from EAFIT University. Her work explores improvisation and sound creation, transforming Latin American tradition through a contemporary musical language. Her approach balances discipline and freedom, with a focus on creating meaningful connections with audiences. In her latest project, the piano leads an ensemble that revisits Latin American traditions through a fresh, contemporary lens.

LATINA MODE

Latina Mode is a vibrant immersion in the richness of Latin America, where tradition and innovation meet without boundaries. The piano takes center stage as the leading voice, driving an ensemble of drums, bass and percussion in a contemporary celebration of identity. A sophisticated rhythmic journey with global reach and deeply Latin roots.
